

Consumers' Barkback—Kong on a Rope

By Marlette Love-Goodnight

Oh Guardian Angel of dog owners, grant me a toy that will not break, rip, fall apart when wet, crumble when chomped, or sink when dropped in water, and that I can throw far enough distance to exercise my dog without pulling my shoulder out of its socket! And the Guardian Angel said: “go forth and buy a Kong on a Rope.” And I did—LOL.

I honestly cannot say enough good things about this toy/training aid. It is one of the best all around dog toys I have ever used. The dogs will happily sit and chew on it or play tug of war with it. It takes punishment and bounces back like a pro. I find the Kong on a Rope to be a very versatile training aid. I have used it as a retrieve object as well as a scent object. It comes in three sizes and a couple of colors now as well as a floatable version for summer pool or lake fun. Prices range from $6 to $12—well worth it!

I give the Kong on a Rope 5 Stars. You can see a picture here:

<http://www.kongcompany.com/retraining.html>